In the city of Lecco many of the factories closed during the 1960s.

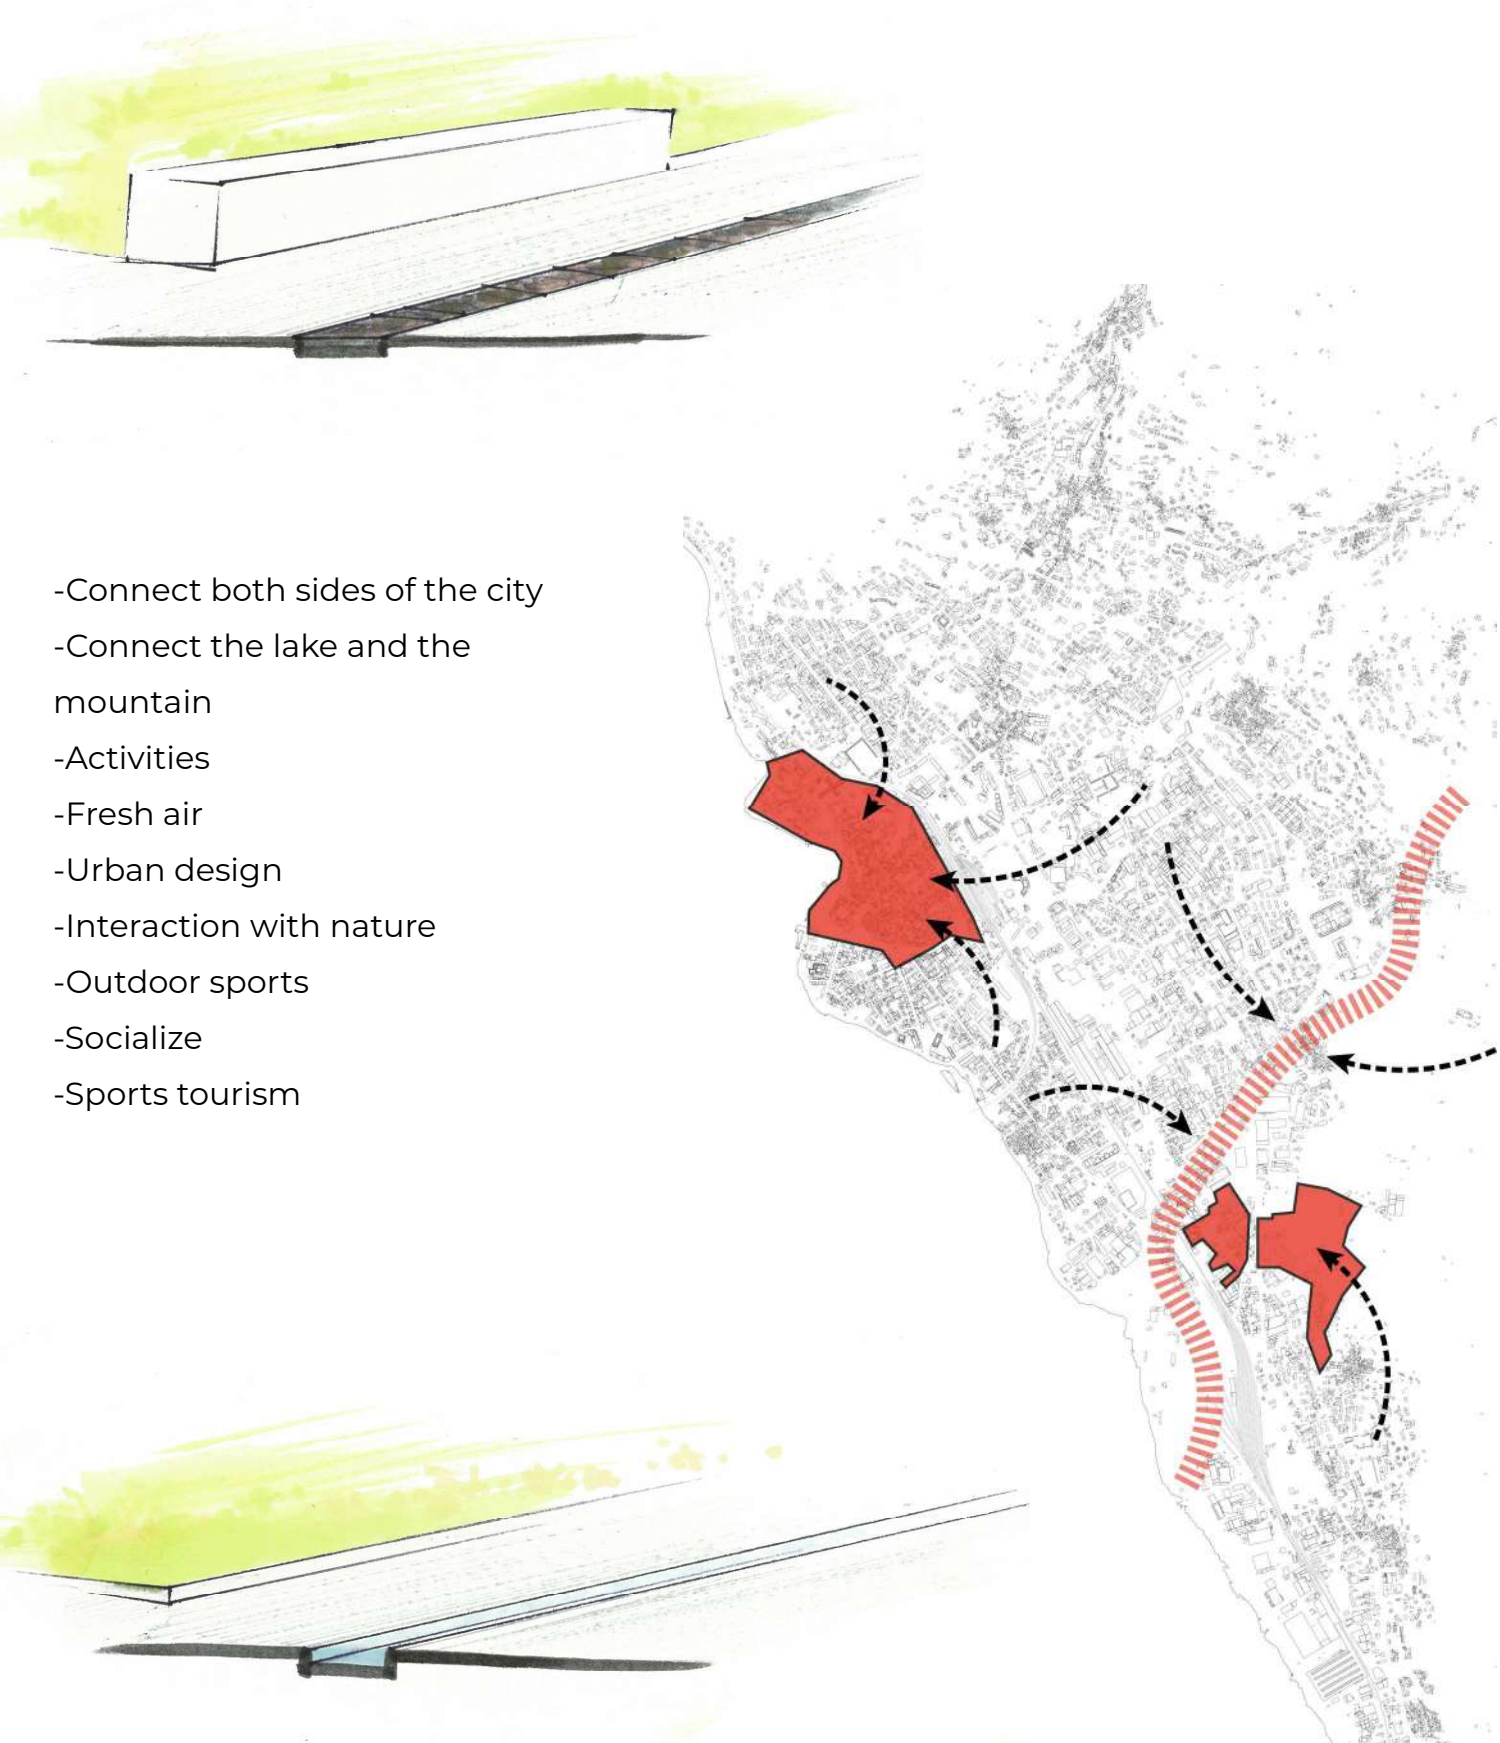

Originally the city had an urban design based on its industrial arrangement, which soon became obsolete as the factories themselves.

Lake Como and the mountains of Lecco could be an important tourist attraction. But, due to the lack of urban design of the city, tourists do not see it attractive.

The primary idea of this project is to change this current issue of Lecco. The city becomes more interesting by connecting the mountains and the lake system and creating a net of activities in between.

Building in an eco-sustainable way, and protecting the cultural heritage of the city.
